

Commissioners Request Backing For Airport

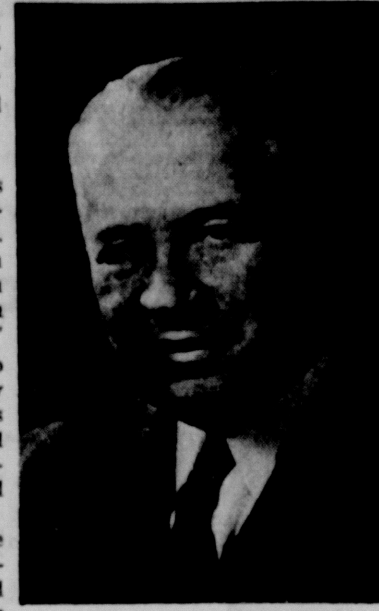

By Leonard Randolph
R. LEROY Dengler yesterday urged Monroe County Commissioners to "carry the ball" in pushing for construction of a modern airport.

Dengler Opposes $32,000 For Zoning Program

THE CHAIRMAN of the Mount Pocono Airport Authority yesterday took a strong stand in opposition to "spending $32,000 to bring in outside consultants" to do planning and zoning.

R. LeRoy Dengler, Authority chairman, made the observation at a meeting with Monroe County Commissioners. Members of the Commission have also opposed the expenditure.

At yesterday morning's meeting, Dengler told Commissioners John R. Lesoine, Willard Quick and W. Adolph Rake:

R. LeRoy Dengler

"I don't think there's any reason, right now, for the county to have to bring in somebody to do planning and zoning."

Local Brains
"I think we have brains enough right here in the county to do the planning needed."

"I'm for planning. But a man from the outside is not the man to come in here and tell you where your zones should be."

Dengler then went on to point out that a complete study of the county-wide area was made some years ago. He said that the master plan which resulted from that study is still on file and is still available.

Only a small portion of the ideas incorporated in that planning study were ever carried out, he said, but the ideas are still good today.

He went on to say:

Basic Part
"An airport was a basic part of that plan. It was developed years ago, but lots of its recommendations for roads and development have never been carried out. If someone wants to get a start on planning they can get a good one with that study."

As an illustration of some recommendations in the original study, Dengler pointed to recommended elimination of grade crossings over railroad tracks at ground level. In three cases — Mount Pocono, Paradise and Cresco — these proposals have been carried out.

But in other areas, particularly those located in centers, the recommended actions have not been taken, he said.

Included in the study, Dengler said, were recommended actions in regard to the overall development of the full county area — all a part of progressive planning for the future, he said.

County Commissioners have been asked during recent months to give $32,000 to the Monroe County Planning Commission so that the latter group would be able to hire an outside engineering firm to come in and analyze the County.

No Money
Commissioners have declined to do so on the grounds that they have no money available and, even if they did, no money was set aside in the current budget for such purposes.

None of the Commissioners has expressed opposition to planning itself. But all three, in varying degrees, have voiced vehement opposition to the demands for a $32,000 appropriation.

Commissioners have repeatedly urged that concrete steps toward planning be taken within the two Stroudsburg boroughs and large surrounding townships.

Two months ago County Commissioners also volunteered to let the County Planning group use clerical help in their own office whenever necessary. They have offered to cooperate with the planners in any other way possible, also, but have consistently drawn the line at agreeing to a lump-sum appropriation to finance planning done by an outside firm.

Now the council has issued a further decree: "Residents who continue to violate conservation orders by bathing will have severe fines imposed on them on the spot by control officers."

Some Budapesters asked: "What about the lady caught in her tub by a control officer? She doesn't usually carry money there to pay an on-the-spot fine, so how will she satisfy the commission?"

The Communists have sought to blame "wastefulness" for the water shortage.

governments in the area who are not already represented to take at least some small part in financing the airport.

Chairman John R. Lesoine told Dengler, chairman of the Mount Pocono Airport Authority, which intends to build a $400,000 equipped air field near that borough:

"This board has decided that if you can get some of the rest of these municipalities to go along with the Authority and become members, we will reconsider."

Commissioners have already agreed to give the Airport Authority $50,000 in 10 yearly payments of $5,000 each. The Authority is now seeking an additional $16,666 to make up, in matching funds, the amount needed to insure awarding of the first phase contract on the project.

Most of the money for the airport is being provided by Federal funds and money from the State. Federal funds account for half of total costs and the State provides another one quarter. The remaining 25 percent must be raised on the local level.

In pressing the Authority to bring more townships and boroughs into active membership, County Commissioners noted that "an airport such as this should benefit the area as a whole, therefore it is logical that financing should be spread over the county area, wherever possible."

Dengler told the Commissioners that "we are going to present material to borough councils and the remaining townships to show the value of the airport once it's completed."

The Authority's chairman went on to say that such material is already in the process of preparation. He said the Authority hopes to be able to present it to separate townships and borough governments within the near future.

"But," he said, "We need to know if we can get the $16,666 we need to fulfill obligations for the first-phase contract. Unless we have that assurance, we will lose the same amount from the State and twice that much from Federal funds."

Dengler agreed that other townships and boroughs should be pressed to join the Authority and participate, in whatever way possible, in its building program. At present only Mount Pocono Borough, Paradise, Tobyhanna, Coolbaugh, Pocono and Barrett townships are in the Authority. East Stroudsburg Borough once passed a resolution to join but no further action was ever taken. Possibility of that borough's renewed interest in the Authority's work was revitalized at this month's Council meeting.

In commenting on the importance of the airport to the county as a whole, however, Dengler went on to point out: "There are 33 other community airports in Pennsylvania right now. And in every single case the County Commission and the large population centers have been the ones who have pressed for the air field."

"In Monroe County we have just the opposite case. Here we have a small borough and five townships pushing for completion of the project but we don't have the strong drive of the county or the major boroughs."

Adams Feels Ike On Way To Recovery

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower's chief assistant, Sherman Adams, said tonight the chief executive is "back in the saddle" and on the way to complete recovery.

But, Adams added, the President's mild stroke on Nov. 25 points up the need for a constitutional amendment making it clear just when the vice president shall take over in the event of a president's inability to fulfill his duties.

Prepared Speech
Adams made his comments in a prepared speech for a Republican finance meeting.

He was the first White House official to refer publicly to Eisenhower's recent seizure with the commonly used term, a minor stroke. The White House physician had described it as a blockage of a small artery in the brain.

Adams told the group: "I left behind me in the White House a man who looks strong — acts strong — and a man who is strong."

"I am no doctor, but as a layman, I can report that the President is on his way to complete recovery. It is my opinion that he is in excellent shape."

"The impact of his leadership and force of his personality are today as powerful as at any time in my five years of close association with him."

"His mind is keen, alert, vigorous. His determination to advance world peace and keep America militarily, economically and spiritually strong is as firm, as intense, as it ever was."

In Short
"In short, the President is back in the saddle. His grip on the reins is tight and sure."

Adams assailed what he called "some chatter about usurpation of powers by myself or others" and misleading claptrap about the activities of Vice President Nixon.

"In my book," Adams said, "the (Nixon) has performed admirably these past two weeks and on the previous occasions when the President has been taken ill."

Adams disclosed for the first time that it was the President's personal secretary, Mrs. Anne Whitman, who first noticed the speech difficulty which led doctors to conclude he had suffered some impairment of blood circulation in the brain.

Marines In Murder Trial
WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 9 (AP)—Defense counsel for three Camp Lejeune Marines on trial for murder in the slaying of a civilian tried today to picture the fatal shooting during a roadhouse brawl as an accident.

"It is a social tragedy, not a case of homicide," declared Atty. Aaron Goldberg of Wilmington in summing arguments to a new Hanover Superior Court jury.

"These men," continued Goldberg, "are trained to become killers for the defense of their country and are quickly changed from boys into men; there is no time to indulge in more noble pastimes and are forced into the cesspools of this country for diversion."

Solicitor J. J. Burney is to give final prosecution arguments tomorrow in the case against Paul H. Faust, 18, of Baltimore; William T. Powell, 19, of Cincinnati; and Wilbur Carter, 20, of Annapolis, Md.

New York In Knots Subway Strike Defies Legal Rule

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—A group of motormen struck the New York subway system for the second time in 18 months today, in defiance of court orders. They threatened to press the walkout indefinitely.

The 5 a.m. strike turned the rain-soaked city into an angry beehive of vast confusion.

Tens of thousands of stranded commuters stormed railroad stations in a grave evening rush-hour crush.

State of Emergency
Police on the scene at Pennsylvania Station declared a state of emergency at one point an estimated 70,000 elbowing commuters fought for limited railroad train space.

Later, superior police officers said the emergency proclamation was overly hasty. They said no reports of serious trouble arose from the thronged masses.

However, several persons collapsed in the mob and one man suffered a heart attack. Ambulances stood by on alert outside the station.

At Grand Central Terminal, 3,000 streaming, pushing commuters contended for train space, overflowing some areas of the vast station.

The Transit Authority said night rush hour service was about 66 per cent normal. However, subways were running as much as 40 minutes behind schedule and many of them were hopelessly overcrowded.

Some trains were so packed that few people could get in or out at stops. Doors could not be closed in many instances because of passengers wedged in them.

"Breathing is almost impossible," one woman passenger gasped as she struggled off a subway.

Private firms and government offices dismissed employees an hour or more early because of the transit crisis. This resulted in an earlier than usual rush hour jam.

But in the long run it appeared to have eased the situation as the dangerous passenger buildups subsided.

Authority Hopeful
The Transit Authority was hopeful of gradually improving the service to 4 1/2 million daily fares. But there was a constant threat that the strike might spread to other restless subway unions.

Four hundred subway signalmen stayed on the job despite reports that they were joining the strike of an estimated 300 members of the Independent Motormen's Benevolent Assn.

More than 3,000 conductors and townsmen scheduled emergency meetings while their leaders openly talked strike.

Top leaders of the MBA were jailed for contempt of court even before the strike began. But from their cells they flashed word to their members:

Demand Release
"Keep 'em shut down until we get out."

The MBA board of directors went even further than this admonition. In an early evening session, they decided to continue the strike until the leaders were freed and until the union was recognized as bargaining agent for its members. MBA special counsel Moss K. Schenck declared:

"The strike is going on until the men in jail are set free and the members are granted a craft election. Until these two objectives are met the strike will continue indefinitely."

Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he was hopeful that conditions will be better tomorrow.

"If it isn't better tomorrow, I will have something to say," Wagner said.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 9 (AP)—The AFL-CIO today conditionally expelled the 132,000-member Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union on corruption charges.

The ouster, voted by a 7-1 margin by AFL-CIO convention delegates, is to go into effect next March 15, or sooner if AFL-CIO leaders become convinced there is no hope that James G. Cross will quit as the union's president.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, called Cross and the Bakery Union executive board to a meeting before the AFL-CIO Executive Council tomorrow morning. It was indicated the council might make the expulsion effective tomorrow unless Cross agrees to step out.

Directing Terrorism
Cross was accused by Meany on the convention floor as being corrupt and directing terrorism and reprisals against reform groups inside the Bakers Union.

If no compliance is forthcoming, Meany said in a 50-minute speech to convention, "then the Executive Council is not going to take 90 days to act, they're going to act in 90 minutes."

The federation has made the removal of Cross a condition for the Bakers remaining in the AFL-CIO.

But after the vote, Cross said "This doesn't change anything. I'm going to stay in."

The expulsion action was the convention's second.

The giant Teamsters Union was thrown out of the federation last Friday on charges it is dominated by corrupt influences, mainly President-elect James R. Hoffa.

Today's vote of 11,118,079 for conditional expulsion and 1,680,695 against underlined the determination of the federation to oust corruption-charged elements from its ranks. The vote was cast by delegates representing AFL-CIO members.

Also facing expulsion threats are the 75,000-member Laundry Workers and the Distillery Workers, with 30,000 members.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council read into the convention record its action of last week against the 44,000-member United Textile Workers Union.

The Executive Council suspended the union last Wednesday and said it would fix a date for expulsion pending efforts by the UTW to take "prompt and effective steps to rid itself of the corruptive influences and abuses heretofore found to exist in that union."

Conditional expulsion of the Bakery Workers came on a recommendation in a 13-page appeals committee report. The Bakers were spared immediate expulsion because certain reforms have been carried out within the group.

Cross has refused to quit as president of the Bakery Workers despite demands by Meany and the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

Testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee linked Cross with compromising ties with employers and misuse of union funds and powers. Cross has denied the charges.

Yosko Seeks Survey Of Blue Laws
HARRISBURG, Dec. 9 (AP)—Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) today asked the Legislature's study group to undertake a survey of Sunday Blue Law observances in Pennsylvania.

In a letter to Rep. Baker Royer (R-Lancaster), chairman of the Joint State Government Commission, Yosko pointed out that such a study had been authorized by the 1957 Legislature and noted the controversy that has arisen in the Lehigh Valley area over violation of an old statute prohibiting business on Sunday. Similar protests have been raised in other parts of eastern Pennsylvania.

Yosko urged that the commission, when it meets again next week, seek to determine:

- "1. Whether certain Blue Laws should be repealed;
- "2. Whether certain Blue Laws should be retained;
- "3. Whether certain Blue Laws should be amended to provide greater penalties, and
- "4. Whether the question of certain business operating on Sunday should be submitted to local option as suggested in Senate Bill 732."

Number Of Requests
He identified Senate Bill 792 as one of a series of bills offered at the last session relating to the question of amending the Blue Laws.

The record shows the bill would have left the question of Sunday business activities up to local referendum. It was pigeonholed in committee after passing a second reading on the floor of the Senate.

Yosko said he has had a number of requests, "in particular, one from Joseph A. McDonough, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and a civic organization of appearing before the subcommittee of the commission) assigned to make the study."

Reached at his home in Ephrata, Rep. Royer told a reporter that the Joint Commission already has selected a dozen other subjects for study and that is all the commission's budget will allow.

U.S. Halts Weapons For Yugoslavia
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The United States stopped all weapons shipments to Yugoslavia today after Marshal Tito spurned further deliveries because of "irritations" at frequent policy reviews of the program.

Authoritative officials who disclosed this said, however, that American economic aid, now averaging about 100 million dollars a year, would continue to move forward to Tito's government.

250 Jets
A few million dollars worth of military assistance may be reinstituted later, they said, but only to provide spare parts and maintenance for the estimated billion dollars of American arms delivered to Yugoslavia since 1950.

The military cutoff will bar delivery of some 250 jet fighters previously allocated for Tito's air force.

Tito renounced further American military aid, officials said, at a conference Friday on the island of Brioni with American Ambassador James W. Riddleberger.

Top State Department officials said they were not alarmed at Tito's move.

Schedule
The department said the program for putting a 20-inch fully instrumented satellite into space by next March is not expected to be jeopardized by last Friday's mishap.

However, a spokesman said there is now no firm schedule for another try at putting a small test satellite into space.

The spokesman also said no time has yet been set for the Army to try its independent program of lofting a satellite with a Jupiter-C test missile.

"The damage to the test stand was moderately serious, but it is expected that repairs can be made in a short period of time," the Vanguard announcement said.

Wetzel To Be Held Without Bond
ROCKINGHAM, N.C., Dec. 9 (AP)—Frank Edward Wetzel, accused of killing two state highway patrolmen, was ordered held without bond on a murder charge today. The action came after a Negro hitchhiker calmly identified him as the motorist who shot and killed Patrolman Wister Lee Reece near Ellerbe the night of Nov. 5.

The hitchhiker, Robert Terry Jr. confronted Wetzel at a preliminary hearing in Richmond County Superior Court and for the second time today "positively identified" Wetzel, 36, an escapee from a New York state mental hospital, as the slayer.

The first identification came at Central Prison in Raleigh, where Terry picked Wetzel from a lineup of eight men and told officers, "That's the man."

Wetzel, arrested in Bakersfield, Calif., about two weeks ago, arrived in Raleigh by train.

Navy Quiet On Exact Cause For Failure Of Vanguard
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Office of Naval Research said today Project Vanguard officials have determined the exact cause of Friday's failure to launch a Vanguard satellite rocket at Cape Canaveral, Fla., but that the details cannot be made public.

The office, which has jurisdiction over Vanguard, said the misfire and explosion of the big Vanguard rocket "was caused by a mechanical failure in the propulsion system, details of which are classified secret."

A Defense Department spokesman said no further details can be given.

Mental Health Association Plans Event

MRS. ARTHUR HENNING, president of Monroe County Mental Health Assn., last night issued a "special invitation" to all Monroe County residents to attend the program featuring Dr. George S. Stevenson tomorrow at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Stevenson is one of the best-known and most widely-quoted authorities on psychiatry and mental health in the U.S. His topic will be "How To Deal With Your Tensions."

He is the author of more than a hundred articles on various aspects of mental health, all of which have appeared in recognized and respected professional journals.

Best-Known

He is perhaps best-known outside professional circles, however, for the more recent booklets he has written for the National Association for Mental Health, and for his book "Child Guidance Clinics: A Quarter Century of Development."

His most recent booklet, distributed free by the NAMH and written for that organization, bears the same title as his lecture Wednesday night. It has become one of America's most widely-read "books" during recent months.

"How To Deal With Your Tensions" is already going into its 10th printing order and more than two million copies have been distributed.

Dr. Stevenson is a past president of the American Psychiatric Assn. He is consultant to the United State Public Health Service and is a member of the Advisory Committee on Problems of Alcohol for the National Research Council.

Wednesday night's program is open to everyone who wants to attend. No charge is made for admission, whatever, Mrs. Henning said.

All schools in the area are especially invited to send delegations of teachers or administrators to the program. Professional persons in all categories touching on mental health are urged to attend.

Association Names Speaker

CLARENCE Crocherson, vice president of the American Appraisal Co., New York, will address the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the National Association of Accountants on Friday, during a technical session to be held at the Cedar Club, Bethlehem.

The speaker, a graduate of Pratt Institute, School of Architecture, long active in NAA, served as president of the New York chapter in 1940 when they won the Stevenson Trophy as the outstanding chapter in the country.

Engineers To Hold Meeting

Appropriation Approved For 32 Tracts In Stroud Township

Way Cleared For Bridge Construction

APPROPRIATION of 32 tracts of land in Stroud Township to make way for reconstruction of the railroad bridge near Anasomink has been authorized by the Public Utility Commission.

The Commission approved appropriation of the land by the State last week in its decision ordering rebuilding of the giant span which was destroyed in the 1955 flood. The bridge carried N. Fifth St. traffic to Route 90. Cost of replacing the bridge is estimated at $629,148.25. Two other minor improvements (on State Highway Route 497 and S. H. R. 45080) will cost $77,391.40 and $6,616.80 respectively. Total cost of all improvements in the project approved by the PUC: $713,156.45.

State Costs
All of these costs will be borne by the State Department of Highways. Some Federal funds will be used to defray a portion of the costs.

But the best news, for Monroe County's government and for Stroud Township supervisors, was the announcement that neither of the two local municipalities would have to pay anything for reconstruction of the bridge or rechanneling of the Brodheads Creek under the span.

Not included in the costs itemized above are expenses to be borne by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad in alterations to its wire lines and engineering inspections. The total of those costs is estimated at $6,000—all to be paid by the railroad.

Property damages which may be incurred by the construction are estimated at $15,000. The Department of Highways agreed to be made completely responsible for those damages.

Included among the 32 tracts listed in the PUC order were the properties enumerated below. Owners' names are shown first.

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad—5 tracts of land most of which is within boundaries of property once owned by John S. Van Vleet and deeded to the railroad on Feb. 14, 1953.

Pine Brook Foundation, Inc., Stroudsburg RD 2—11 tracts of land totaling about five acres, aggregate. Eight of the sections of land were once part of the E. M. Hallett farm which was sold to Pine Brook in 1939; two more were once owned by Fred DeWitt, sold to the camp in 1934 and the remaining tract-section was sold by Rev. Leon Davis to Pine Brook in 1955. Davis was once manager of the flood-devastated Camp Davis which lay along the railroad tracks.

Vernon Pennell, Stroudsburg RD 3—a tract of land containing .246 of one acre.

Neison Whitmore, Stroudsburg RD 2—a tract containing 1.253 acres more or less.

Russell F. Barry, 352 Green Tree Drive, East Stroudsburg—a tract of .961 of one acre.

Kenneth F. Smiley, East Stroudsburg—a tract containing .531 of one acre.

Charles Arnt Estate, East Stroudsburg—625 of one acre of land.

Ernest Van Fliet, Stroudsburg RD 3—two tracts of land, one containing 2.16 acres and the second .402 of one acre.

Faith Rowe Estate, East Stroudsburg RD 3, Bernard Rowe, executor—a tract containing 1.19 acres.

Edwin Fuhrer, East Stroudsburg RD 3—four tracts, containing: .091 of one acre; 2.820 acres; .010 of one acre and 1.42 acres or 4.34 acres total.

Richard Anthony Jr., East Stroudsburg RD 3—a tract containing 3.37 acres of land.

Mary Turner, Stroudsburg—one tract of .112 of one acre and another small tract of .22 of one acre for the proposed channel change.

Horace Cramer, East Stroudsburg RD 2—a tract of land measuring .465 of one acre.

Ellert Albus, East Stroudsburg RD 2—a tract containing .55 of one acre.

In announcing its order, the Commission fixed Dec. 1, 1959 as the deadline for completion of the bridge and other improvements. Since August, 1955, motorists in this area have been using the old Gravel Place crossing temporary structure as an access road from Stroudsburg to Route 90.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9 (AP)—A North Philadelphia real estate dealer today exchanged pistol shots in his office with a robber, causing the intruder and his companion to flee.

Morris B. Geller, 36, the real estate dealer, fired five bullets. The robber fired once. Nobody was hit.

VISITING THE VISITING NURSES—All year 'round the Visiting Nurses Assn. sends its workers out to residences in the county. Last night they pulled a switch: they let people come to visit them—at their open house in the new quarters on Brown St. across from the General Hospital. Among principals: Mrs. Ruth Valenzuela, guest speaker; Mrs. Eugene Martin, Berne F. Cramer and Mrs. Virginia DePuy. (Staff Photo by Randolph)

'Open House'

Visiting Nurses List New Slate Of Officers

STRESSING the manner in which Community Chest agencies work together for the good of the whole community, Visiting Nurse Assn. of Monroe County last night held its "open house" annual meeting in its new quarters.

In election of officers, the following were named: Berne F. Cramer, president; William Gibson, vice president; Mrs. John E. Watt, secretary; Robert F. Davenport, treasurer.

Newly-elected directors are: Edward K. Driebe, Charles D. Geissinger, Mrs. George L. Huguenin, and Arthur Sebring.

Mrs. Virginia DePuy, executive director of the VNA, emphasized that Visiting Nurse service is provided to all persons requesting it, on an "ability to pay" basis. When the patient is unable to pay for service it is provided out of the Community Chest grant.

The major theme of the meeting, however, was the wholehearted cooperation between VNA and other Chest agencies as well as the community's doctors, educators and other professional representatives.

Mrs. DePuy released the annual report which showed that a total of 2,801 visits were made during the past year to 408 cases in the County.

Nurses also traveled 14,741 miles to visit patients throughout Monroe County. The VNA gave 45 infant care demonstrations for 301 maternity patients at the hospital. There is a close working liaison between General Hospital of Monroe County and the VNA.

Two 12-hour courses were held during the year for a total of 17 prospective parents, the report showed.

Of the 2,801 visits made this past fiscal year the VNA received full pay for 738, part pay for 361, was paid for 639 by the Department of Public Assistance, for 72 by the Monroe County Unit of the American Cancer Society, for 11 by the Veterans Administration and made the remaining 980 visits completely without charge.

The fact that community agencies perform their work in conjunction with one another whenever this is possible was further illustrated in the program for the open house.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Ruth Valenzuela, psychiatric social worker at the Guidance Center of Monroe and Northampton Counties in Easton. Mrs. Valenzuela was introduced by Mrs. Eugene Martin, a member of the Monroe County Guidance Center board delegation.

The Guidance Center is also a member of Monroe County Community Chest.

Mrs. Valenzuela outlined, in detail, the work done by the Center in Easton. It is now staffed to handle both adult and child guidance problems.

For Visiting Nurse Assn., last night marked the formal opening of its new headquarters. The agency is now housed in the residence owned by General Hospital across the street (on Brown St.) from the General Hospital building.

The attractive new quarters were filled last night with visitors from other Chest agencies and from the community. Refreshments were served after the business meeting and program.

Club officials said Miss Capron's program was "very well received."

New members are still welcomed to the club. For further information, prospective members should contact Mrs. Elizabeth Schuchard. A total of 79 persons attended last night's meeting, the spokesman said.

Mildred Capron, woman explorer-photographer, was the speaker. A movie filmed "on the scene" and titled "Solo Safari To South Africa" was the highlight of her appearance.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Stauffer, of Belfast, and the widow of Henry Jory. Before coming to Stroudsburg 15 years ago, Mrs. Jory resided in Pen Argyl for 70 years.

One Survivor
She was one of the oldest members of Zion Methodist Church, Pen Argyl. Her daughter is her only survivor.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Pullis Funeral Home, Pen Argyl.

Fire Sweeps Mid-City Scranton

SCRANTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Nine firemen suffered minor injuries while battling a general alarm fire that swept through five central city business places last night and early today.

Damage was estimated unofficially at $300,000.

The blaze, fanned by high winds, apparently started in Preno's Restaurant, one of the city's largest.

Dress Shop
It quickly swept through a dress shop, hardware store, cigar store and barber shop.

Every available piece of city firefighting equipment was thrown into the battle against the fire.

Firemen from surrounding communities also came here to help.

State Moves Against Eight In Levittown

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Dec. 9 (AP)—The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania asked the Bucks County Common Pleas Court today to grant a permanent injunction against eight Levittown residents to prevent their harassing of the only Negro family now residing in that community of 60,000.

Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride personally handled the case before Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite to stop efforts of eight persons to drive out William J. Myers Jr., his wife and three children from the home they purchased last August.

Mrs. Myers, the first witness, testified to the annoying practices.

Defendants in the injunction proceeding—already restrained preliminarily by Judge Satterthwaite on Oct. 23—are Eldred Williams, James E. Newell, Howard H. Bentcliffe, Agnes Bentcliffe, his wife; John R. Bentley, David L. Heller, John T. Piechowski and Mrs. John Barbazon.

Mohawk Wants Profit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The president of Mohawk Airlines told the Civil Aeronautics Board today his firm wants to undertake no new service unless it pays for itself.

Robert Peach, Mohawk president, said that Mohawk will fly any routes assigned to it by the CAB under a government subsidy.

But he said, that subsidy should guarantee not only the company's breaking even but enabling it to make payments on borrowed capital.

Mohawk's testimony was presented as CAB Examiner John A. Cannon continued lengthy hearings on numerous petitions for expanded local air service throughout the northeast.

Peach emphasized the need for connecting air service between western and northern New York State cities it now serves and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Pittsburgh, he said, could provide a needed gateway to the west for local area flights from such cities as Syracuse, Albany, Elmira, Corning, N.Y., and Bradford, Pa.

Guidance Center Cooperates With Various Groups To Assist Children With Problems

WORKING with the classroom teacher, educators, parents and the child himself, the Guidance Center of Monroe and Northampton Counties hope to help re-mold children who have become disturbed, a speaker at the Visiting Nurse Assn. open house said last night.

Mrs. Ruth Valenzuela, psychiatric social workers at the Center, detailed the work done there. She noted that it covers the needs of an estimated 100,000 people in the two counties and receives its main contributions from Community Chest and county commissions.

An estimated 30 children and adults are treated each week, she said. The ages of the children range mainly from six to 16 years, but any age is eligible.

Among the Center's main services, she said, are its education program, working with the community and the schools; consultation; diagnosis and treatment.

Mrs. Valenzuela then outlined the process for general treatment cases: The social —both together and then separately. The child is seen by the staff psychiatrist and is then thoroughly tested by the psychologist. The three workers then consult with each other on possible treatment.

Only after each of these steps has been taken is the treatment itself begun. At first, she said, the Center may suggest to the parents methods which will alleviate the child's problems. This is often done following the first interview.

Tests will show whether the child feels unloved, insecure, afraid of adults, shows hostility toward school work or has a behavior manifesting any of these. Usually the Guidance Center can help the child best when parents understand and accept findings and are willing to go along with the treatment.

Treatment of the child at the Center is carried out in the playroom where, with various play materials, the child, in effect "acts out" his aggressive feelings. The Center also works with classroom teachers in an effort to help interpret the child's behavior in classes. The treatment may take two months — or two worker talks with parents first years.

Mrs. Valenzuela has office hours, locally, in the same building with the Visiting Nurse Association, across from General Hospital on Brown St. Her hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the first and third Tuesday of each month. She interviews only parents here and then schedules appointments for children at the Easton center.

A second guest speaker on last night's program was Mrs. Arthur Henning, president of the Monroe County Mental Health Assn. Mrs. Henning pointed out that the purpose of the Mental Health Assn. is to study needs in mental health in the local area.

A primary aim of the organization, she said, is to do educational work in the prevention of mental illness. She extended an invitation to all those present at the open house to also attend the address by Dr. George S. Stevenson, nationally-known mental health authority, on Wednesday night at 8 in Teacher College auditorium. The meeting is sponsored by the Mental Health Assn.

Small Theft Proves Costly

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9 (AP)—Two Hagerstown youths accused of taking $73 in collectors' coins from an elderly man's room were convicted of petit larceny today in Magistrate's Court.

Grover R. Miller, 16, and Harold L. Zimmerman, 20, both pleaded guilty. Magistrate Edwin H. Miller sentenced each to 30 days in the Washington County Jail, saying he did so because the two had previous police records.

The boys told Magistrate Miller they had heard an old man lived there who had some money.

Wilson Man Faces Charge In Wreck

EASTON — A Wilson Borough resident whose car was involved in a collision with that of an East Stroudsburg area resident at Walnut Ave. and Ferry St. Sunday night has been charged with drunken driving.

Identified as Amzie Peterman, 41, of 2436 Alder St., Wilson, he was released in $300 bail after a hearing before Alderman Louis Odenweider.

Peterman's car and one driven by Genevieve Barr Chamberlain, 28, of East Stroudsburg, RD 3, collided about 6:30 p.m., police said.

Cooling Off Period Urged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—William P. Rogers, the new attorney general, today proposed a sort of "cooling off period" in the field of civil rights legislation.

The 44-year-old Justice Department chief, holding his first news conference as attorney general, said he has no plan for recommending that the President submit any new civil rights proposals at the next session of Congress.

Tribute To Paul Crawn

It was with regret that we learned of the resignation of Paul M. Crawn as deputy director for Monroe County Civil Defense, effective next Sunday, because of the pressure of personal business.

He leaves the position after more than five years of loyal, devoted service during which the county unit has become one of the outstanding C. D. organizations in the entire state.

The Daily Record's relations with the county council have always been on the highest plane, due in large measure to the co-operation we received from the tireless Mr. Crawn.

Despite his full-time duties as an instructor at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, he has fulfilled his obligations as executive director of Civil Defense in a manner reflecting great credit on the entire organization.

Mr. Crawn not only has kept abreast of developments as they relate to the nation's security but he also has contributed ideas of his own which have been shared by units in this and other parts of the state.

He has worked diligently and faithfully during his entire tenure as deputy director under the county director, Judge Fred W. Davis. Mr. Crawn was named to the position when Jack Anderson left to become Eastern Area director under the State Council of Civil Defense Act of 1951. Civil Defense as we know it today grew out of the military set-up formed during World War Two and it has operated as a peace-time organization to deal with both military and domestic emergencies.

While trained specifically to cope with disasters such as war, the entire county unit demonstrated its versatility and flexibility by the yeoman service it performed in the August, 1955 flood here.

It was activated at the onset of the high waters and served continuously for a period of eight days. We recall distinctly how Mr. Crawn literally crawled out of a sick bed to direct the Civil Defense operations during Monroe County's greatest hour of need.

For this, the unit won the sincere thanks of everyone and gained the utmost respect of even those who had previously seen fit to criticize it.

Mr. Crawn has given many, many hours of his time to the job. He has traveled extensively to improve the organization and to add to his own knowledge of Civil Defense. For this he received no salary—merely a nominal sum to cover bare expenses.

Only a person whose devotion to duty exceeds all else could be expected to do an outstanding job under such circumstances. Such a man is Paul M. Crawn.

Monroe County owes him a debt of gratitude for all he has done to improve and maintain the high standard of efficiency which characterizes our Civil defense unit.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Government Heating

The other day our Washington Wire carried this terse notice: "Defense Mobilizer Gray turns on the air conditioning to combat overheating in his office."

While recognizing that a lot of Washington offices, especially the Office of Defense Mobilization, may seem a bit warmer nowadays what with Sputnik and all, turning on the air conditioning to reduce the temperature in a room heated by a heating system hardly seemed the best way to go about it.

So we asked our Washington reporter who covers Mr. Gordon Gray's activities how come he was spending good money to cool off heat, and how was Mr. Gray feeling otherwise these days?

The answer we got we should have known. Whoever built the building which houses Mr. Gray's offices arranged matters so that Mr. Gray can't turn off the heat. Neither can he open the windows. So the air conditioner was the last defense Mr. Gray could mobilize against the janitor.

The answer we should have known is that Mr. Gray is just in Washington, that's all; a bureaucrat harassed by bureaucracy, a victim of centralized Government heating.

The Pennsylvania Story

Sales Tax No Big Issue

By Mason Denison Harrisburg — When the big gubernatorial-senatorial election shoot gets under way next year, missing from the scene for a change will be the usual clamor and hubbub on the part of Pennsylvania leaders over the sales tax issue.

This is not to say that the painful subject will be taboo. Not quite. However it will not have the once prominent field it hitherto enjoyed. The crimson sales tax flag is destined to be waved at the tail of the campaign caravan rather than at the front.

The subject of the sales tax it will be recalled has long been the campaign chant of donkey riders of the Keystone State.

It was an axiomatic campaign issue for them before they ascended the gubernatorial throne in that 1954 scramble indeed had been one of the clinchers of their successful 1954 campaign.

In the aftermath, the one per cent sales tax died as Democrats had promised but Republicans holding the Senate whiphand in the Legislature in 1955 imposed a two per cent sales tax — which this year went up to three per cent.

Administration Democrats fought the move with every tooth and nail at their disposal. Governor Leader in a proper and fitting rage and pother howled bitterly from his den atop Capitol Hill.

But behind the scenes one fact was becoming painfully clear during this rampage — those who had to pay the tax (and who do the voting) were not complaining, especially when it came down to a choice of a sales tax or some other broad based form, i. e. an income tax.

At this point—three full-bloded years after the 1954 fiasco—top Democratic strategists are not so sure that the sales tax was a deciding or even heavily influencing factor in the Democratic win after all.

The quietude with which the populace seemingly has accepted the levy has appalled Democratic fire-breathers. Privately most are convinced the blasted levy is here to stay.

To the consternation of administration Democrats the levy has begun to produce returns close to those predicted by Republican lawmakers—although Democrats had vowed doggedly that it couldn't be done.

Democrats literally have had their tax props knocked out from under them—disconcerting though it may seem. Moralistic chirps on the subject will be heard periodically, to be sure—but the blood and thunder castigations on the subject of the past apparently are destined for the sideshow next year. It's a different story for the GOP.

Since the 13th century, forts have been built on the coast of Ghana, formerly the Gold Coast, Africa, by the Portuguese, Spanish, Dutch, English, Danes and Swedes.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

What Do You Say?

We were having a talk the other day on the subject of how to conduct propaganda in Europe, Asia and Africa.

In the interest of the United States. For up to now, most of our efforts have failed. The evidence of failure lies in the rise of neutrality, the success of Soviet propaganda among the smaller nations of the world, the brilliant conception of a Sputnik as a propaganda device, the drawing of delegations of youth from all countries to Moscow.

The United States has not been able to equal this propaganda or to counteract it. Whatever money is spent by the U. S. I. A. or any other United States agency of information has thus far come up with only one good idea during the past four or five years, namely, the Supermarket exhibits in various cities in Europe. How permanently such exhibits affect public opinion in favor of the United States, it is not possible to say.

The really successful job that the Russians have done on us has been to give a bit twist to the truth, namely, they have succeeded in giving the impression that we favor war and that they favor peace. Every day, the Russian, Chinese, Arab, and other radios blare accusations against the United States as the nation that is painting war while Khrushchev is painted as a sort of cherubic clown, generally with a glass of liquor in his hand, whose only ambition is to establish a permanent peace.

Peace is what the entire world desires. War only means death. The Russians, for instance, test bombs all the time. It is only when the United States tests a bomb that a tremendous howl goes up about the horrors of the fall-out and the splitting of the Earth. If the end result of the hydrogen bomb is so terrible, why do not the Russians stop testing hydrogen bombs? Nobody asks them such a question and they do not answer. They only accuse the United States of testing and of planning to use bombs to exterminate the human race.

And so successful has been the Russian propaganda that even in such countries as Great Britain, France and Canada, large elements of the population believe the Russians in preference to the United States; even anti-Communist elements in those countries and in the United States are beginning to doubt anything that is said about Soviet Russia that is not favorable to the Russians.

I recently heard a distinguished American say of Soviet Russia, "a nation wiped out 40 years ago," which, of course, is not true. Russia was not wiped out 40 years ago. There was little actual fighting on Russian soil in World War I.

I recall, 40 years ago, I travelled from Petrograd, where food was scarce, to Herbin in Manchuria. As soon as we left Petrograd, food became plentiful. As our train stopped in city after city, we ate very well. True, the people were worried and frightened but they were pleased that they had been taken out of the war which they had come to hate. Everywhere I found courageous people who expected that in a few months order would be restored. By order, however, they did not mean anything concrete. They did not want the Czar. They did not want Lenin and Trotsky. They did not know what they wanted. It was precisely this negative attitude that gave Lenin his strength. He moved in upon a bewildered people and gave them the Leninist concept of Marxism, a way of life.

In 1955, the United States issued in France a pamphlet entitled "L'Economie Americaine" which is the most unbelievable document ever produced. It is supposed to describe American capitalism. Apparently the mid-Twentieth Century form of capitalism in the United States is to be measured by the widespread ownership of the stock of companies. In what manner is this different from any other period? Also what is the objection to small or family businesses?

Are we to be ashamed of the great material advances made by American capitalism up to 1933 or did the world begin in that year? How do we expect Europeans to respect us when our propaganda is based on the statement that the capitalism that Marx described in 1848 is a far cry from the capitalism enjoyed in the United States today? Is that true?

French Build Atom Bomb

Washington, Dec. 9.—France is now the fourth nation that has developed nuclear weapons.

(The other three are the U. S., Britain and Russia.)

The French have definitely produced at least one "atomic weapon," and are completing work on several other "devices."

They will all be tested next Spring, probably in the Sahara Desert.

Further, within five years virtually every country in Europe will be able to produce its own nuclear weapons.

Authority for these fateful disclosures is Rep. Earl Durham (D., N. C.), chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee. He recently returned from a European survey, during which he conferred with leading nuclear officials and scientists.

Durham related his startling information at a secret meeting of his Joint Committee. That was held to hear Atomic Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss explain the legislation the Administration will ask Congress to enact to permit the exchange of classified nuclear data with foreign countries.

The sensational revelations by Durham both overshadowed and clashed with what Strauss had to say.

Highlights of what he told the committee at this un-announced session are:

Initially, Britain is to be the sole beneficiary of the proposed exchange legislation. Basic intent of that legislation is for costly U. S. information on the "design and fabrication" of nuclear weapons to be made available to Britain, at a great saving to the latter, in return for British developments in atomic power, particularly thermonuclear, in which they are reputedly ahead of this country. The contemplated revisions in the Atomic Act have not yet been written by Strauss and his assistants. The actual "language" has still to be seen by the Joint Committee.

On all these matters, Strauss was subjected to critical questioning. He has long been at loggerheads with committee leaders. This strong undercurrent of disapproval was repeatedly evident during this hastily-called unannounced conference.

A Hard Sell—From the attitude evinced by the committeemen, the Administration has a tough job ahead of it getting its atomic plans approved by Congress.

Significantly indicative of this uncertain legislative situation was Rep. Durham's blunt challenge of Strauss' admission, under questioning, that Britain is to be the only beneficiary of the exchange of nuclear information.

"This is a double standard which is certain to have pronounced adverse effect on our other NATO allies," declared Durham. "They are bound to resent such treatment."

"No nation will be mentioned in the proposed legislation," explained Strauss. "It will be written so that the President will have authority to exchange information with all NATO countries, although that is not our intention at this time. This is an exchange program, and we are going to exchange only with those who have something to exchange. The French don't."

"That is what you think," retorted Durham. "The French very definitely have something to exchange. Don't kid yourself that they are not going to have an atomic weapons test next spring. They definitely have such a weapon, and are working on several other devices."

"Seeing is believing," said Strauss.

"That's right," replied Durham, "and you will see."

Good Evening Ladies!

Old Buzzards Marry Chicks

By Ken Duvall

Why do some men who are smart enough to garner all sorts of scholastic honors in the nation's universities, and then go out in the world and make fortunes running into the millions, marry notorious female tramps who take them for their shirts?

A lady from Texas wants me to take time off from picking women to pieces, and showing what makes them tick, and answer this one. Is a good woman attractive to a man only if he is having an economic struggle? she asks. Why, when he makes his pile, does he blow it on lady bumps?

Of course, I have no personal knowledge of this, having no pile and knowing no lady bumps, but I have frequently observed in the press dispatch about world conditions is complete without a quote from him. "There will be no war," he once said, and the country settled back and forgot about intercontinental missiles.

So, we then are treated to long press dispatches about the glittering wedding of Joe Blow and Mrs. Fifi, etc., and haw, on the honeymoon, he drank a little too much champagne and spilled the beans about his intention to corner Pacific 24-hour stock, thus creating a 24-hour panic in Wall Street.

We forget all about Joe Blow and the madam for about a year and then the world is startled, I don't know why, to read that Mrs. Blow has sued for divorce and five million alimony, announcing that she intends to marry the chairman of the board of Continental Gimmicks, aged 84, because he is the first man she ever loved in all her life. And, by heaven, he eventually does so, hurrying it up for obvious reasons.

You ask me for an explanation of this phenomenon, Madam Texas? You've come to the wrong guy.

Behind The Scenes

In Hollywood

Joanne Dru turned down one of the leads in Vic Mature's next Hollywood picture, "Escort West." She thought the script excellent, but the role too similar to several she has played.

Leona Gage, who was "Miss Universe" for two days until it was discovered she was married and the mother of two, has taken a house and plans to remain. When asked about her husband, Air Force Staff Sergeant Gene Ennis, stationed in Baltimore, she replied, "I have no comment to make. Leona's foot is in a cast. She broke it in a fall at home."

During her rest at the hospital, Marlon Brando's bride, Anna Kashfi, gained six pounds.

Ted Grouya (Mary Meade French's ex) has been escorting oil-rich matron Elsinore Machris around Palm Springs. He was with her at the big dinner given in her honor in the new Fountain Room at the Desert Inn. When I queried Elsinore about marriage rumors, she Senete Republican Leader William Knowland, Calif., questioned Strauss closely about the contemplated exchanges with Britain.

"Are you planning to give them atomic weapons?" demanded Knowland.

"No, that is not our intention," declared Strauss. "The British are capable of producing their own weapons. What they need is our latest information on design and fabrication methods. In exchange for that, they will give us data on the commercial and military uses of atomic energy that will be very valuable to us. It will save us much time and money in research and development."

Durham warned that from what he learned in Europe it will be only a few years before the present three-power "monopoly" in nuclear weapons will be widely broken.

"From what I saw and heard over there," said the Joint Committee chairman, "the rate of progress in atomic development is so widespread and active that within five years virtually every nation in Europe will be able to produce its own weapons. We will make a very great mistake if we overlook this reality."

Other committee members attending this secret meeting included Senators Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), Henry Dworshak (R., Idaho), and Rep. James Van Zandt (R., Pa.).

Conelrad Test Heard In Area

by Jim Riley

A special radio program took place yesterday morning, but I doubt very much if many people in this locality were awake at the hour. The program was actually a Conelrad test conducted by the 26th Air Defense Command. It was on the air from 1 a.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Monroe County is a part of the 26th Division, which has headquarters in Roslyn, N. Y., and includes Delaware, New Jersey, a portion of Eastern Pennsylvania, part of Eastern New York, all of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and the southern portion of both New Hampshire and Vermont.

Local broadcasting duties were handled by Ernie Transue, chief engineer at radio station WVPO and Mr. Radio in this neck of the woods.

The 26th Division gives all orders to the Conelrad radio tests in this area, but in times of toll and trouble Civil Defense messages are carried over the air.

Conelrad's name comes from the title—CONTROL of Electromagnetic RADIATION.

The definition above is technical language, meaning that broadcasting frequencies are controlled in order to confuse enemy bomber or submarine pilots, but at the same time provide local broadcasting channels for giving life-saving information and instructions to the American people.

Without Conelrad or some other emergency broadcasting system in operation during an enemy attack we would face an indefinite shutdown of all radio and television broadcasts.

To prevent enemy pilots from using our radio stations signals to guide them to our target cities, the Conelrad station has been devised to provide local instruction and guidance during a national crisis.

Yesterday's broadcast wasn't a public alert, but was actually a test to improve the operating procedures for the Conelrad emergency system of broadcasting.

The test was carried out on the 640 and 1240 frequencies on the radio dial.

These two marks on the dial should be placed beside your emergency telephone numbers in a safe place. In case of a national catastrophe, it is very important that you switch your radio dial to either 640 or 1240.

Transue's voice was heard on 640 yesterday as he broadcast from the WVPO transmitter setup on Godfrey's Ridge.

If the United States were to be threatened, the approach of enemy craft would be the signal for shutting down all radio and television stations, just as was done in this section for the Conelrad test. In a matter of minutes, those radio stations having Conelrad permits would return to the air on the frequencies of 640 and 1240.

We should all know a little more about this setup—some day it may save our lives.

'What Young People Think'*Room Of Their Own Feature Of Dream House For Teen-Agers

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

TEEN-AGERS, too, like to build dream houses.

And, if ever they get a chance actually to build along the lines they now have in mind, some changes are going to be made in present day house planning — although not as many as you might expect.

Talking to 600 boys and girls around the country, my surveyors were a little surprised that these youngsters had given as much thought as they had to the homes they want to own when they grow up.

More than half of them actually make a practice of inspecting new homes in their neighborhoods. Quite obviously, not all of their waking moments are filled with thoughts of dates, school work, rock 'n' roll and family squabbles.

"Home owning" is the proper phrase. Although 45 per cent of America's families today live in rented quarters, the teen-agers, almost to a boy and girl, believe in buying rather than renting.

On the other hand, they are fairly conservative about the amount of money they expect to spend on such a project. A strong majority of the boys, 60 per cent, figured that two years' income would be about right. Fifteen per cent want to go to no further than a year's income and only 19 per cent say three years. The girls proved more venturesome on this point, with the largest number, 37 per cent, favoring three years' income.

Boys Want Bigger Houses
Getting away from the detail of how much they want to spend, the boys are more free wheeling. While three per cent of the girls will settle for four rooms, and the largest number, 39 per cent, favor six room houses, a decided plurality of the boys, 47 per cent, think that no fewer than seven rooms are requisite for their dream homes. Six per cent of both boys and girls would go for nine or more rooms! It would seem obvious that the trend towards larger families is not yet a thing of the past.

To be more specific, just what is it that these youngsters want in a home?

Here are their basic requirements, in the order of their importance:

1. An adequate number of spacious rooms.
2. Good appearance and design.
3. Good locality.
4. A recreation room.
5. Spacious kitchen.
6. Adequate closets.
7. Good construction.

Speaking generally, 88 per cent of the boys and 78 per cent of the girls approve of modern trends in building. But they have objections too, as indicated by these sample comments: "Not modern enough." "They're not as attractive as they used to be years ago." "Too classy for poor people." "Sub-division homes are too much alike."

"Lacking individuality and originality."

"Construction often is poor."

"Built for looks rather than comfort."

"Most houses in our price level are too small."

Neither the requirement for private rooms nor for a recreation room seems surprising. The tendency of youth to want a place to be alone is well known, as well as their desire for good times. And the recreation room requirement ties in with the consensus of last year's women's Congress that a family room and "mud room" are most desirable.

They'd Build Anew
But while 71 per cent of the boys and 89 per cent of the girls make a point of having rooms of their own, only 41 per cent of the boys and 61 per cent of the girls have them now. Could be that's just why they are insistent on them for their dream houses.

Only a third of the youngsters, moreover, would like to have homes of their own that approximate the ones they are living in right now. Even though the ancestral dwelling is good enough for mom and dad, it isn't just what they have in mind!

Separate dining rooms aren't too important to these young people. Nearly 60 per cent of both boys and girls aren't much interested in them.

And how about the size of the lot? The boys, it would appear, want a little more room to move around in than the girls but half an acre seems about right to the greater number of both sexes. In view of current trends, it's a gamble whether they ever will get it.

Rails Sag To New Low
On Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Selling in steels led the way for today's declining stock market but aircrafts and selected issues provided a minority of gainers.

The argument for a lower market, however, prevailed by about 2-to-1 there being 652 losers to 327 gainers. The 1,202 issues traded made it a broader-than-usual market.

Rails sagged to a new 1957 low. Motors, oils, chemicals, non-ferrous metals and most rubbers were on the downside. It was a fairly selective market with a number of special situations bucking the trend. Some key stocks were off 2 to 3 points. Steels were depressed. Aircrafts were boosted.

Average Falls

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.20 to $157.30 with the industrials off $1.90, the rails off $1.40 and the utilities unchanged.

There were 72 new lows for the year and 7 new highs.

Based on the drop in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange fell an estimated 1½ billion dollars.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 11 fell and 4 rose.

Curtiss-Wright, still adversely affected by the government's action to obtain back rent on its plants, topped the most active list with 57,700 shares. The stock was off 1 at 24½.

Paramount Pictures made a net gain of 2½ after soaring around 4 on Wall Street talk that the firm's library of 700-odd full-length movies may be sold to theater chains.

U.S. Steel was heavily traded and off a point.

Among some leading stocks which lost rather sharply were National Steel off 2½, Allied Chemical off 3½, Goodrich off 2 and duPont off 1½.

The losing column included Chrysler off 1, Royal Dutch off ¾, Union Carbide off 1¼ and American Telephone off ¼.

American Stock Exchange prices were generally lower. Corporate bonds were higher and Government bonds were firm.

Students Feel Bold Move
By West May Halt Reds

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst
Some students of the Middle East are beginning to ask whether a bold move by the West to sponsor Arab unity might be one answer to the instability which now invites Communist infiltration.

It is a question to be approached cautiously. Not merely because of the political problems involved, but because the rise of nationalist states in general has tended to divide rather than unify the world.

Nevertheless authorities like Freda Uteley are trying to divine the future of the Middle East through application of lessons learned from Western efforts to keep Imperial China divided.

And George Kennan says that instead of seeking to divide, the West should seek reconciliation and unity for the area.

Unity Fails

The Arabs themselves have tried and failed to attain unity in the face of Western discouragement. When Egypt's Nasser talks of unity from the Atlantic to the Persian gulf there are shudders.

The Zionists naturally fear a really cohesive Arab League would threaten them with disaster.

The West fears it would produce dangerous bargaining power for the oil countries.

Kennan thinks the West already has handed them too much of this, through its heavy reliance on Suez and Middle Eastern Oil. He suggests greater reliance on other sources and stockpiles to give the West greater flexibility in negotiations.

Small Nations
Nevertheless he sees the need for helping the Middle East to unity.

Such situations have always been the bugaboo of the West's efforts to build up underdeveloped countries against the threat of communism.

Every time you build somebody up in one interest, another interest is threatened, as the world is now witnessing in the case of Indonesia.

Kennan warns against appeasement, or putting the small nations in a position to play Moscow off against the West. He says you must not try to buy or coerce, but seek to attain true cooperation.

"ALMOST, BUT NOT ENOUGH" is our verdict on how close competitive cars have come to matching the Swept-Wing 58. Take style. Other new cars are "almost" as low in inches, but still seem high and boxy in looks. Some of them are "almost" going to fins, but not enough to really make a difference. Then take performance. None of the other 1958 cars have anything to match the sway-free, dip-free, vibration-free ride of Torsion-Aire. (It's standard equipment.) Most of them still don't even have push-button driving! So after you've seen the "almost" cars, come in and drive a Swept-Wing 58. You'll see why we say: They're catching on, but they can't catch up.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

It was bound to happen sometime: two organizations meeting at the same place in the same room at the same time. Lucky it happened during the season of peace on earth, good will to men, or who knows what might have happened.

The Community Chorus and the Ann Logan Society both had signed up for the big room and the use of the kitchen at the Y for their Christmas meetings, and the committees from both arrived, each laden down with all the Christmas ornaments, decorations, greens, Christmas cookies and whatever and met spung in the middle.

Sorry to disappoint you if you think it ended up with them breaking ornaments over each others head and each one outcarolling the other. Actually it was very peaceful and calm by the time I got there.

If the Y is ever calm, that is, with a sewing class finishing up their dresses in one room, a Santa Claus I never did catch up with going up one side and down the other, and all the rest of the merry y-merry-go-round.

Well, there isn't much I can add to the merry season these days, except my voice has come back enough to add a croak now and then to the Christmas carols. But I still can't smell. Which is a decided handicap.

I was thinking of that during the afternoon meeting when Mrs. Turner was talking about the patch of her childhood, always made of paper rocks and real moss. The smell of real moss was as much part of her Christmas as evergreens or fresh cookies.

There are many things that re-create memories—the sight of candles in the windows, the sound of carols—but most particularly the smells can bring a hundred Christmases back.

There's the wet smell of spring and the smoky smell of autumn, the peppermint smell of old age; and the talcum and sun-dried diaper smell of babies. There's a party smell of furniture polish and fresh flowers, and a morning smell of bacon and coffee.

A world without smell loses sharpness like a world with colors lost in fog or with sound deadened by ear-muffs or a world felt through gloves. There was plenty to see and hear last night—but you'll have to wait until tomorrow to read about it. Meanwhile smell some smells for me.

Secret Pal Party Wed At Van Auker's

Christmas Traditions To Be Held At Woman's Club

The Love Feast and the Christmas pusch, the beeswax candles and the sugar cakes and Christmas cookies are Christmas customs with a special significance to the Moravians of Bethlehem, which was named in a Love Feast on Christmas Eve.

These and many other customs of the Moravians were described by Mrs. Frank Turner, a member of the Woman's Club of Bethlehem and of the Moravian Church there, in a program given at the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs yesterday afternoon at the Stroud Community House.

You Could Tell by the Ribbons

Mrs. Turner wore the costume, worn by all of the women of Bethlehem 200 years ago, as part of the Great Economy when the infant settlement established communal living. The dress was varied only by the colors of the ribbons: red for little girls; pink for maidens; blue for wives; and white for widows.

The communal living was not part of the doctrine of the church but a way of life in establishing the community here. Mrs. Turner stressed, The Moravian Church, originally the Unity of the Brethren, was founded by followers of John Huss in 1457, and this 500th anniversary year has brought members from all over the world, even from behind the Iron Curtain to visit Bethlehem.

She described how the church had gone underground to escape persecution during the 30 Years War and had been renewed by a group of Moravians who at the invitation of Count Zinzendorf had assembled on his estate. It was also with his help that the Moravians emigrated to this country and set up their community in Bethlehem.

Many of the original buildings still are in use in Bethlehem, not as restorations, but preserved through the centuries, she said. Some of them like the Widows House, are still used as homes by the widows of missionaries.

Mrs. Turner touched on many other aspects of history and customs of the Moravians, and displayed many of the articles which have become associated with their customs.

Party for Well-Babies

At the business meeting, Mrs. W. A. Hannas, welfare chairman, passed around a decorated cradle to receive the gift of members for the Christmas gifts for the Well-Baby Clinic. The sum of $35.35 was collected. Ernest H. Wyckoff was a guest at the meeting, explaining details of the 17-day Air Tour of Europe which is being sponsored by the Woman's Club for the benefit of the Home for the Aged. The all-expense tour will leave on March 15 and will include visits to London, Holland, Luzerne, Rome, Venice, Milan and Paris.

Tea from a Christmas table and recorded Christmas carols opened the meeting. Mrs. Samuel O. Wells III, president, paid tribute to the late Mrs. Harry Ransberry Dreyer, and a moment of silence was observed in her memory.

Mrs. George Harmon, past president of the Bethlehem Women's Club, and former state education chairman, was also a guest at the meeting.

Pocono Mountains Motor Club Phone 803 21 N. 7th St., Stroudsburg

The Wyckoff Shopper

The Friendly Store Wyckoff

This is the time of year when a store like Wyckoff's gets every conceivable type of inquiry: From the chairman of a club party, "What kind of gifts could we purchase for 25-or-35c that would be equally suitable for boys or girls, aged one to six?" (We suggest balls, because all children love them—horns might be another suggestion.) From a school teacher: "What could I give my pupils as a Christmas gift—something for 25c?" (We think of those adorable hand-carved wooden musicians and athletes in our Candy and Gift departments—they're actually designed to hold place cards, but are decidedly ornamental, and the teacher could insert the card with the child's name. From a little boy: "What can I buy for 1.00 that will look like more and leave me change for a soda?" Now THAT's a tough one at first glance—but when you really look around our store, you can find any number of items for less than a dollar that look like more. Probably the most peculiar question I've encountered this year was, "What can I give a woman that will be absolutely useless and funny?" There was an answer for that one too, but I won't print it here—it might steal some of the amusement from the gift.

Any more questions, please? My boss, Mr. Wyckoff, is very interested in the Children's Clothing Fund and made an appearance, along with Captain Henry Drummond of the Salvation Army, on Friday morning's radio program in behalf of this worthy project. Clothing, I am told, is very badly needed, and while used apparel in good condition will be accepted, it is hoped contributions will be generous enough to provide new. Checks may be mailed to Attorney Arlington Williams, treasurer of the fund; Mr. Wyckoff, or Captain Drummond. . . . Mr. Wyckoff also made an appeal for the Tuberculosis Seal sale on the radio. Our Monroe County agencies all do a most remarkable job, and are deserving of whatever support we can give them. Remember, too, that any comfort you can give to others is the finest gift you could possibly offer the Christ Child.

Superstitious? A glance at the calendar will show you a Friday the 13th on the horizon. I try not to be superstitious—but I think almost everyone is to a certain extent. I know that it absolutely ruined my day when a black cat strolled leisurely—and with great deliberation—across my path the other morning. That happened once before, and I was in an automobile accident.

Elsie Miller wishes me to remind you that orders are now being taken for half-pound Christmas boxes of chocolates for distribution at lodge, Sunday School, class room and club Yuletide parties. This candy is a splendid quality, delicious as can be, at 36c. Call her today with your order, and please ever so many people.

My son, Tim, is quite entranced by the velvet pincushions in the form of bull dogs being sold in our gift department. They are cute, with jutting jaws, long teeth, perky hats, etc. But I prefer the red velvet kangaroos with baby in pouch. Either would be a pet stocking stuffer or Secret Pal gift.

Applications Now Available For Units In Housing Authority

Houses To Be Ready By February

APPLICATIONS for admission to newly-constructed housing units for moderate income families in Monroe County will be accepted beginning at 9:30 a.m. today in the office of the Housing Authority of Monroe County at 1526 N. Fifth St.

Rev. Roger C. Stimson, authority chairman, said the new units, designed to provide decent, safe and sanitary housing, will be available for occupancy about February of next year.

Applicants must meet eligibility requirements established by the Public Housing Administration under the provisions of the U. S. Housing Act.

Moderate Income

Rev. Stimson said requirements include that the family be one of moderate income and that the family have an urgent housing need unless it is the family of a veteran or serviceman for which the housing need may be waived.

Other requirements limit the number of persons who may occupy a given size house. Only families or a single person 65 years of age or over are allowed to rent houses. No lodgers are permitted.

Actual income limits, in terms of total yearly family net earnings will be announced shortly. Rents will be established and charged so they will constitute a fixed percentage of the family income.

Persons desiring further information regarding eligibility may obtain details from Miss Janice Price at the housing authority office.

President's Illness Opens Talk Valve

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—As soon as the illness of the world's most famous patient was identified as a mild stroke, suggestions flew about that President Eisenhower would, or should, resign.

These suggestions promptly were knocked down at the White House. And Vice President Nixon, who would get the job if Eisenhower were to quit, said: "I would like to scotch once and for all, if I can, any rumors to the effect that the President himself or anybody in the President's official family have discussed or are considering the possibility of resignation."

Even though the President's recovery seems remarkable, the thought keeps bobbing up. In all our history, no president ever has quit.

How does a president go about giving up what many think is the world's most taxing job? Would he drop a note to us, the voters who hired him, and say he was sorry but circumstances beyond his control compelled him, etc.?

Question

And would we send back our regrets, and maybe ask if he couldn't stay on for the Christmas rush?

Well, as you might suspect, it isn't like that at all.

Here's what the Constitution has to say on the subject:

"In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president."

Any president who decides to toss in the towel can do so "only by a written instrument" which he must sign. This is to be deposited with the secretary of state.

Presumably the president would set a time for the resignation to take effect, the vice president would take the oath at or around that moment, and history would be made.

Come to think of it, it is surprising that no president ever has quit. Certainly many must have regretted, in private, that they ever hired out for such a job.

Woodrow Wilson, crippled by a stroke, Abraham Lincoln, beleaguered not only by his enemies but also by members of his own party.

But quit? Possibly the reaction of Harry Truman in 1948 was typical. The Democrats had lost Congress and Sen. J. W. Albright (D-Ark.) said he thought Truman should resign and, if possible, permit a Republican to take over.

Truman didn't reply publicly, but he wasted no time getting his views out. He let it be known that he wouldn't think of such a thing. His view: That would be running out on the job.

An obvious conclusion: Any man with the ambition and drive that takes him to the presidency isn't likely to quit. Our history proves it.

Exchange Club Features Annual Christmas Party

THE ANNUAL Christmas party of the Exchange Club was held last night in East Stroudsburg's Grace Lutheran Church.

President Lawrence Schoenberger was in charge of the program and Rev. William Wunder, pastor of the host church, gave the invocation.

Dinner music was provided by Miss Barbara Sleep at the organ and the Choraliers of East Stroudsburg High School, under the direction of Kenneth Raessler, presented a program of Christmas music.

Presbyterian

The Rev. Charles E. Staples, assistant minister of First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg, was the speaker. Eugene Martin, son of Dean and Mrs. Eugene Martin, was honored as the youth of the month.

Active in athletics and a member of the National Honor Society, he has held various school offices. His father is dean of men and head football coach at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

The program concluded with performances by Tanya Alford, singer; Roger Bett, organist, and Kenneth Smith, accordionist, all of Pen Argyl.

Water Gap Bans Parking All Night

DELaware WATER GAP—Don't park on Delaware Water Gap streets overnight.

Borough Police Chief Fred Decker said last night that he's beginning a crackdown on the annoying practice immediately.

Borough Ordinance

Decker said there is a Borough Ordinance against it. Number 76, he pointed out, expressly forbids all-night parking on any borough street.

From now on, the chief said, the ordinance will be strictly enforced.

Police Name Seven For Paint Prank

BANGOR — Seven juveniles, charged with throwing yellow and white paint on the entrance of Bangor Joint High School on Nov. 26, 1956, have been turned over to William C. Kinney, Northampton County juvenile officer, for further action.

The group was arrested after an investigation by Trooper John Udits of the Easton State Police barracks and Bangor Police Chief Glenwood T. Lewis.

Unofficial reports indicated three of those arrested formerly attended Easton High School while the other four are former students at Bangor Joint and Pope Pius High School, Roseto.

Tall Cedars Hold Outing

MARSHALLS CREEK — Pocono Forest Tall Cedars of Lebanon held its annual Ladies Night Christmas Party here at Bill Altier's Inn last night. A total of 60 people were in attendance.

An exchange of Christmas gifts and dancing to the music of Ronald Nauman and his group highlighted the outing.

Toastmaster

Grand Tall Cedar Stanley Heller acted as toastmaster and Scribner Clarence Seip was chairman for the program.

The next meeting of Pocono Forest is scheduled for Dec. 26 at the Odd Fellows Hall, Stroudsburg. Election and installation of officers will be held at that time.

15 Killed When Train Hits Truck

CODOGNO, Italy, Dec. 9 (AP)—A Milan-Rome express train smashed into a grain truck trapped between crossing barriers tonight and buckled into a mass of wreckage after plowing for 600 feet along the track.

At least 15 persons were killed. Police pulled 10 dead and more than 30 injured from the wreckage. Five of the injured died in hospitals.

The engineer of the train said he was travelling 80 miles an hour when he spotted the truck and tried to apply the brakes, "but it was too late."

Slate Belt Teen-Agers Injured

BANGOR — Two teen-agers were injured Saturday in a two-car collision on Route 90, five miles south of here.

Joyce Williams, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owens Williams, 16 S. Main St., was admitted to Easton Hospital with fractures of the left leg and pelvis. Ronald Zavacky, 18, of 510 Broad St., Pen Argyl, was treated at the hospital for a head cut.

State Police

State Police at Easton said a car driven by Stanley B. Werkheiser, Jr., 18, Bangor RD, was struck by one operated by James Albert, 22, of 670 Snyder St., Bangor, while Werkheiser was attempting to make a left turn.

Zavacky was a passenger in Werkheiser's car, while Miss Williams was riding in Albert's auto.

Dent Named As Party Candidate

HARRISBURG, Dec. 9 (AP)—The 36-member Democratic State Executive Committee today selected Sen. John H. Dent as the party's candidate for congress from Westmoreland County.

The nomination of the Jeanette Democrat was unanimous.

Opponent

He will run against Republican Herbert O. Morrison, Scottsdale, in a special election Jan. 21 for the vacancy created by the death of Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, veteran Democrat.

Dent, 49, served as Senate Democratic floor leader since 1943. He said he would resign the Senate immediately if elected. It would then be up to the Senate president pro tempore to fix a special election for his Senate seat. It would probably coincide with the May 20 primary.

Ike Motorcades May Be Limited

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The White House said today that for safety's sake it may become necessary to limit the number of newsmen's automobiles in presidential motorcades.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made the statement after reporters escorting President Eisenhower back to the White House from his Gettysburg, Pa. farm, had been involved in three traffic accidents. None to do with Eisenhower's own limousine.

Swartwood Jury Selected For Trial

A JURY of five women and seven men was selected in Monroe County Court yesterday to try Thomas R. Swartwood, Jr., 38, of Wilkes-Barre, on charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Testimony in the case will begin this morning before visiting Judge Clarence E. Bodie of Luzerne County.

Accident

Swartwood was indicted as the result of the death of Edward L. Melisky, 27, Scranton, on last May 7 in a two-truck crash on Route 611 at Swiftwater.

At that time, Swartwood told State Police that his truck, loaded with coal, was southbound on a hill when the brakes failed.

Lesoine Wins Acquittal On Charge Of Failure To Stop

WILLIAM IRVIN LESOINE, 41, of East Stroudsburg, RD 2, was acquitted by a Monroe County Court petit jury yesterday on charges of failure to stop after an accident.

The case was heard before Judge Fred W. Davis.

The charge grew out of a collision last Aug. 10 on Route 12 in front of the Hamilton Township School in which Lesoine's vehicle and a car driven by Barbara Nevil, 19, of Stroudsburg, RD 3, were involved.

Lesoine was arrested by State Police sometime after the accident. No one was injured in the crash, although the Nevil car sustained approximately $300 worth of damages.

Information Sworn Out Against 111

ALLENTOWN, Dec. 9 (AP)—Informations were sworn out against 111 persons today charging them with violation of Pennsylvania's old Blue Law prohibiting Sunday sales.

The 111 are operators and employees of eight retail stores in Northampton and Lehigh counties. They are accused of conducting business yesterday. Five of the stores are in the Allentown area.

After the formal charges were made, three persons from Fountain Hill Furniture Mart in Fountain Hill, an Allentown suburb, were taken before a magistrate and released on $100 bail for a hearing tomorrow.

The legal charges followed a tour of businesses yesterday by Lehigh County Dist. Atty. Paul McGinley and local police. No arrests were made and no businesses were told to close, but names and addresses were taken.

THE GYM of gyms gets its formal baptism of fire tonight when Stroudsburg High opens the doors of its new field house to arch-rival East Stroudsburg in the latest "Battle of Boroughs" basketball get-together.

No better foe could ever be found to officially inaugurate Stroudsburg's ultra-modern gymnasium than with their rivaled rivals from across the Brodheads.

It is fitting too, that East-burg, not any one else is co-host with the Mountaineers in their first "open house" for John Q. Public.

This is quite a gymnasium, Stroud Union School Board planned and had erected. The floor space—basketball-dimensions—is larger than any court in the Lehigh Valley League. It is in fact, one of the largest courts in the entire Lehigh Valley.

Seating-wise, they claim 1500-some persons can park themselves in the stands which climb back into the wall when not in use. Without any fear of not being able to breathe, we'd judge more than 2000 could sit and stand their way through a basketball struggle.

The huge confines are actually two gyms in one. An electrically-operated door separates the boys side from the girls during regular classes.

We've worked our way in and out of a lot of sweat boxes in our time and waited for the day when schoolboys would be operating in the environment which is befitting to our modern schoolboy.

The day has arrived at Stroudsburg High where it is pin-pointed emphatically that indoor sports have left the so-called "barn" era.

Lucky guys they be. We're referring to Tom Somers, past president of the Varsity "S" Club of Stroudsburg, and Merle Stevenson, also of Stroudsburg.

The Penn State Scholar-gram group awarded prizes recently and the two Stroudsburg persons topped two of the better awards. Namely Messrs. Somers and Stevenson.

The Scholar-gram is an organization of Nittany Lion alumni which aids the treasury of the Penn State University Scholarship Fund Inc.

Those who watched the Miami-Pitt grid game on TV last Saturday probably "feel" for Stroudsburg High's John Schoonover who had a 75-yard TD gallop against Catawba called back because an official declared his forward motion had stopped 70 yards back.

In the video dual Saturday, former Allentown High star Terry Stewart raced 53 yards for a six-pointer against the panthers. It appeared that Stewart was stopped "twice" en route to the score. But officials didn't agree with the screen.

Schoonover, in movies taken by the Mountaineers, was nowhere near halted in his Caddy dash that would have given Stroudsburg a 6-0 edge at the time.

Putting the two runs side by side, Schoonover was the legal TD. However, the record books have only Stewart's name inscribed to a long run.

Such is the importance of a quick whistle or a long-awaited toot. There was no comparison in these two instances.

Stags Seek 3rd Court Triumph

NEWFOUNDLAND—Greene-Dreher-Sterling High goes after its third straight basketball triumph today, osting Damascus High on the Stags' floor. Tap off time is 7:30 p.m.

Henry Arneberg's Stags already hold victories over Barrett and Pocono Twp. in exhibition game play.

Greene-Dreher is a member of the Wayne County Conference.

Ladies Slated To Bowl Today

EAST STROUDSBURG Ladies League meets at 6:45 tonight at Harmon's Recreation. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Russ' Restaurant vs Eagles.

Alleys three and four—Zachery's vs Town Tavern.

Alleys five and six—Weichel's Bulck vs Square Bar.

Ballarin Triumphs

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—France's Germain Ballarin rallied in the closing rounds tonight to gain a unanimous decision over Italy's Italo Scorticini in a middleweight 10-round bout in the Palais des Sports before a crowd of 11,000. Ballarin weighed 162½, Scorticini 161½.

Stroudsburg Host To East Stroudsburg Court Squad

Both Teams To Feature Young Talent

THE LATEST athletic rendition of the "Battle of the Boroughs" will be in tune with basketball when Stroudsburg High hosts arch-rival East Stroudsburg in the Mountaineers new gymnasium today.

The varsity tilt will start at 8 p.m. A scheduled jayvee game between teams of both schools will get under way at 6:45 p.m.

It will be the 1957-58 season debut for the Cavaliers, while it will be the third start of the campaign for the twice-victorious Mountaineers.

Both squads will enter the first game of the twice-annual held classic with under-class dotted players.

One Senior

Stroudsburg will have only one senior—Ted Williams—in its starting array, while East-burg will feature two fourth-year boys—Wes Werkheiser and Dale Metzgar—in its lineup.

The remainder of the Mountaineers five is composed of Tom Gross, Jeff Weichel, both Juniors, and sophomores Tod Williams and Leo Frailley.

Eastburg has juniors Irv Smith, Jim Kindrew, and Bob Herman, a sophomore, ready to join Metzgar on the opening quintet.

In the Mountaineers first two wins over Bangor and Pen Argyl, their "big boys," Ted Williams (6-5) and Gross (6-4) carried the scoring lead. Ted leads the Mountaineers' point-getters with a 19-plus norm, while Gross is hitting a 16 per clip.

Last season Kindrew and Metzgar were two of the three big offensive weapons for the Cavaliers. Jim and Dale ranked two, three behind the departed Eastburg scoring ace King Beers.

Captains

Metzgar is captain of Doug Schoonover's Eastburg team. Ted Williams has been named by Mountaineer coach John Kupke to lead his mates in the latest "Battle of the Boroughs."

Stroudsburg officials announced last night that seating room for 1600 people is available in the newly built gymnasium. Tickets will be sold at the attached Mountaineer field house, starting at 6:15 p.m.

Persons wishing to purchase duets earlier may do so today at Community Jewelers and Flagler's Drug Store in Stroudsburg, and at Lantz Store, Lloyd's Sporting Goods Store, Counterman's and Kresge's Drug Stores in Eastburg.

Tickets are also available at East Stroudsburg senior and junior high schools, and Stroudsburg High.

Newcombe Inks Pact

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9 (AP)—Don Newcombe has signed a contract to pitch for the Los Angeles Dodgers next year at a salary estimated at $30,000.

E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi, assistant general manager telephoned Dodgers headquarters from New York to say he had inked the big right-hander, who last season won 11 games and lost 12 but led major leagues in control, issuing only 33 walks in 199 innings.

Bavasi said Newcombe was taking a "token cut" in signing for his 11th year in organized baseball.

Lineman, Back Honored

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Curtis (Gene) Coker, Yale's hard-running fullback from Albany, Tex., and Joe Palermo, Dartmouth guard from Lowell, Mass., scored an all-star double today.

They were selected for both the Ivy League team picked by the eight Ivy coaches and the Eastern college Athletic Conference major college all-star team. Based on weekly voting in press boxes throughout the sprawling conference.

Ivy League

Others named by the Ivy League coaches included back Bob McNiff, Cornell.

The ECAC major college team selections included: ends Dick Lasse, Syracuse, and Les Walters, Penn State; tackle-center, Charles Brueckman, Pitt; back Bob Anderson, Army.

Lock Haven Places Two On All-District

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 9 (AP)—Lock Haven and Indiana each placed two players on the first team of the Dist. 30 NAIA all-star football team.

Top vote getters were George Dintman, halfback from unbeaten Lock Haven and Bob McFarland, senior end from Indiana.

ESSTC Opposes Lock Haven Five

EAST STROUDSBURG Teachers College makes its 1957-58 debut in Pennsylvania Teachers Basketball Conference play today, taking on Lock Haven on the Bald Eagles hardwoods. Game time is 8:15 p.m.

The Warriors of Dick Luce, victors over Trenton in their season's opener last Saturday, will probably go with the same lineup which tripped the Garden States.

Starting at forwards will be Charley German and Dewey Troutman, while Steve Oliveri and either John Krysa or Karl Weigner will operate at the guard slots. Charley Stauffer will open at center.

Also ready for action are Jack Burke, Mike Sentelik, Chick Coover, Bob Daniels and Howie Case. ESSTC inaugurates its home campaign Thursday, entertaining Montclair on the "Hill" boards.

North Carolina Number One Quintet In Opening Poll

NORTH Carolina, the defending national basketball champion, is rated the No. 1 team in the nation in the first weekly Associated Press poll. In fact, North Carolina, Kansas and Kentucky, which finished 1-2-3 in the final balloting last spring, again are ranked in that order.

Coach Frank McGuire's North Carolina team ran its winning streak to 33 by drubbing Clemson 79-55 in its opener and now takes the road to play at George Washington Tuesday.

A total of 121 sports writers and sportscasters voted in the first AP poll of the season, released Tuesday. It turned out to be a three-way race. North Carolina drew 41 first place ballots, Kansas got 34 and Kentucky 23.

On the basis of points, 10 for first, nine for second etc., North Carolina had 1,018, Kansas 965 and Kentucky 869. The voting was based on games through Saturday Dec. 7.

Three Victories

Wilt Chamberlain led Kansas to opening week victories over Oklahoma State, Canisius and Northwestern.

Kentucky took Duke by four points, Ohio State by seven and then was forced into three overtime periods to nip Temple by two points Saturday.

Bradley was ranked fourth after its 97-47 romp over Illinois Normal and Kansas State drew nine first place votes and a fifth-place rating on victories over Texas Western and Indiana.

San Francisco rode over Chico State and West Texas State with no trouble and was voted into sixth position. Then came Michigan State, convincing winners over Butler and Detroit.

West Virginia ran up 100-plus scores in romps over Virginia Military and Furman to earn eighth place. St. Louis, an easy winner over New Mexico Aggies in its opener, was ninth and Temple, beaten in overtime by Kentucky after an opening slaughter of Delaware, was 10th.

The second 10: Minnesota, North Carolina State, UCLA, Seattle, Notre Dame, Rice, Syracuse, Oklahoma City, Cincinnati and Memphis State.

Montreal Entry Retains Title

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Mahmoud Karim of Montreal kept the U. S. Professional Squash Racquets Assn. championship today by turning back Al Molloy of Buffalo 15-17, 15-2, 15-7, 16-14.

Karim also won the pro-amateur tourney, beating Jim Johnson, a Buffalo amateur, 6-15, 15-10, 15-9, 15-7.

Signal Depot, PK Capture Cage Laurels

TOBYHANNA Signal Depot and Patterson-Kelley turned in Industrial League basketball victories at the Monroe County YMCA last night.

The Signal Depot quintet ran wild over Ronson, 65-19, while Patterson-Kelley outlasted Wyckoff-Sears, 47-40.

No Trouble

Tobyhanna had no trouble in the opener, running up a 32-11 advantage at the halfway mark and coasting the remainder of the distance.

Patterson-Kelley trailed by two points at halftime and five points at the three-quarter mark.

But, a 23-11 advantage in the last 10 minutes of play gave Patterson-Kelley the victory. Lineups follow:

Lions Offer New Contracts To Coaches

DETROIT, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Detroit Lions broke precedent today by giving Coach George Wilson and his assistants new one-year contracts before the National Football League season ends.

Wilson, who stepped into the job two days before the team's first exhibition game last August when Buddy Parker unexpectedly resigned, got a salary increase and the right to name another assistant coach.

Likely Move

It is likely he will call on Ray (Scooter) McLean, his long-time friend who now is backfield coach for the Green Bay Packers. The other assistants are Buster Ramsey, Aldo Forte, Bob Nussbaumer and Red Cochran.

This is the first time in the 24-year history of the Lions that the board of directors have awarded new contracts to their coaches during the regular season. The directors stuck to another policy, though, by making all the contracts one-year affairs.

Auburn Voted Loop Franchise

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Directors of the Class D New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League today voted a franchise to Auburn. The action completed the roster of the eight-team league.

In other action, the directors agreed to a local-option provision allowing each member to decide for itself whether or not to play both games of a home double-header in seven innings.

In the past, one game has been seven innings and the other, nine. The directors also voted to open the 1958 season April 26 and close Aug. 29.

Eight Killed In Crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Dec. 9 (AP)—Eight Navy crewmen were killed today when their two-engine seaplane caught fire and crashed about eight miles northeast of this Southern Texas city.

One survivor parachuted to safety. He was burned and could not give an account of the crash, a Navy spokesman said.

Ortega Gains Nod

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 9 (AP)—Sapo Ortega, 134½, Mexico, finished strong tonight to outpoint Bobby Sinn, 134, Australia's featherweight champion, in a 12-round bout at Sydney Stadium.

Monroe County Cagers In Opening Loop Games

MONROE COUNTY Scholastic Basketball League will open its 1957-58 campaign today with all six entries seeing action.

The inaugurating schedule has Poik meeting Pocono Township High at Tannersville; Barrett facing Chestnut Hill at Brodheadsville, and Tobyhanna Township hosting Coolbaugh at Pocono Pines. Varsity games in the circuit start at 8:30 p. m., with jayvee encounters slated to get under way at 7:35 p. m.

Pocono Township, coached by Harry Werkheiser, is the circuit's defending champion.

Colts May Hold Edge In Playoffs

By The Associated Press

THE Baltimore Colts will have the edge if the three-way deadlock for the lead in the Western Division of the National Football League continues after Sunday's games. The Colts are tied for first with the Detroit Lions and the San Francisco 49ers.

According to a playoff plan worked out last week at the NFL meeting at Philadelphia, the Colts would get a bye in the event of a three-way tie. Detroit and San Francisco would play off Dec. 22 at Detroit. The winner would play the Colts Dec. 29 in Baltimore.

Final Outings

Each team plays its final regular season game Sunday. The Colts will be at Los Angeles; the Lions will meet the Bears in Chicago and the 49ers will play Green Bay at San Francisco. Each contender has a 7-4 record.

If Baltimore and San Francisco tie, the playoff game would be at Baltimore Dec. 22. If Detroit ties Baltimore, the game also would be in Baltimore Dec. 22.

If Detroit and San Francisco tie, the playoff game will be at San Francisco Dec. 22.

The championship game between the East and West champions is scheduled in the West city Dec. 29. It would be pushed to Jan. 5 in case of a triple tie.

Little Guy Moves Into Cage Picture

The emephasis has shifted from a big guy to a little guy, but the way those Tar Heels of North Carolina play 'em and beat 'em, how far away can college basketball's all-time winning streak be?

San Francisco's Dons rolled up the record streak of 60 over the past three seasons, leaving Frank McGuire's North Carolinians a full schedule of grind-it-out work to match it.

But if first appearances mean anything, and the hunch is they do, the new version of the Tar Heels will give it a solid try.

All-conquering in 32 games that led to the national collegiate championship last season, the Tar Heels were minus All-America Lennie Rosenblyth (by graduation) and 6-9 Joe Quigg (broken leg) when they kicked off a new campaign against Clemson Saturday.

The final score was 79-55, making it 33 in a row and a 27 to go, but it took only a couple minutes, long enough for them to bolt into a 15-1 lead, to establish the Tar Heels as loaded again.

Tommy Kearns, who did the quarterbacking last season while Rosenblyth handled the brunt of the scoring, assumed his new role well, flipping in 32 points.

Kansas, which took North Carolina to three overtimes before bowing in the NCAA finals last March, made it three straight with a 71-65 decision over Northwestern as Wilt Chamberlain scored 27 for a three-game total of 89.

Strength showed up unexpectedly in other quarters, particularly in the South as Auburn, surprised always-tough Wake Forest, 78-66, and Minnesota, journeying out of the Big Ten lands to Nashville, outbatted Vanderbilt, 89-85 for its third straight.

St. Louis showed off a spectacular crew of sophomores, led by 6-8 George Durkel with 20 points, in routing New Mexico A&M 92-41 and Vern Hatton again was Kentucky's man in the clutch, scoring eight of his 17 points in the extra sessions as the Wildcats fought off Temple in three overtimes, 85-83.

Notre Dame showed power in a 75-53 romp over Wisconsin with Tom Hawkins hitting 26 and Johnny McCarthy 22.

North Carolina State, a top challenger to North Carolina, whipped Penn State 80-62, its third straight, and West Virginia routed Furman 105-67 for its 23rd straight Southern Conference victory.

Get Over Your Foul-Line Phobia

ACTUALLY the only excusable foul results from contact with either a sticky or slippery foreign substance on the alley runway. It trips and spills the bowler over the black line.

But of course, that happens seldom in today's well-groomed establishments.

There are a lot of fouls, though, just the same—some induced by fear of the line, others by mechanically unsound footwork.

Chicago's Joe Flieger, one of the game's topflighters, probably owns the finest foul record—with only five in 50 years.

Only one of them was significant, and painful, too. It came after 11 strikes—depriving him of a 300 game.

Contrasting Case

A contrasting case was Charlie Rodee, a hot-shot Milwaukeean some years ago, until he developed a foul-line phobia. He gradually became so plagued by negative thoughts, such as those noted in the sketch, that he had difficulty getting into stride, lost his footwork completely, finally gave up the game.

No need to foul at all. Do as the stars do. Check your bowling shoe soles before each series. Likewise check the runway (approach) surface with a few practice slides. Then pick a starting spot on which to take your stance for every first ball (strike) delivery. Pick a spot on the runway, the ball return rack or any other thing to serve the purpose. Don't just step up and fire away.

Layne Faces New Problem

DETROIT, Dec. 9 (AP)—Bobby Layne, whose 10-year professional career has been threatened time and time again by an assortment of injuries, had another one to contend with today.

The veteran Detroit Lions' quarterback said he would not make an immediate decision on whether a broken ankle sustained in Sunday's Cleveland and Brown game would end his playing days.

This is the most serious injury ever suffered by the former Texan, who often has said publicly that he would keep playing "as long as I can avoid serious injury."

It was the recuperation, rather than the seriousness of the broken right ankle, that bothered Layne today as he rested comfortably in his hospital bed.

"If it mends all right and I can go at full steam, then I see no reason why I should retire," he said. "Other than the injury, I don't think I'm so old that I can't play for a little longer. I felt fine all season until this happened."

Layne, who came to the Lions in 1949 after his rookie season with the old New York Bulldogs, will be 31 in 10 days.

Lewis Wins Empire Title

NOTTINGHAM, England, Dec. 9 (AP)—Percy Lewis of Trinidad felled Charlie Hill of Scotland 10 times tonight to win the vacant British Empire featherweight title on a 10th round technical knock-out.

The referee halted the one-sided bout after Hill had been decked for the 10th time with only a few seconds left in the scheduled 10-rounder.

Lewis, who now lives at Oxford, England, weighed 124½. Hill weighed 126.

Chamber To Elect Officers Next Monday

A BUSY session awaits members of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce at their final meeting of the year next Monday noon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

One highlight will be the annual election of officers. J. Horace Strunk, executive secretary, said there will also be a number of "unusual and interesting announcements."

Climaxing the session will be an address by Dr. Harold F. Alderfer, first deputy superintendent, Department of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Area Development—Dr. Alderfer will speak on "Problems of Municipal Government Related to Area Development." He is regarded as one of the outstanding authorities in the field of municipal affairs and has been in great demand as both a consultant and a speaker.

He was one of the leading panelists at the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. seminar at Pocono Manor. His address here will deal with many of the problems as they are related to the development and progress of an area.

The Chamber is inviting all borough, county and school officials to attend the meeting. Members of the board of directors will meet at 11:15 a.m.

President Plans Physical Exam

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—President Eisenhower, recuperating in his country estate from the mild stroke he suffered Nov. 25, arranged today to drive back to Washington tomorrow afternoon.

'Golden Hill' Symbol Of Survival For All Poland

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland, Dec. 9.—The Jasna Gora means Golden Hill. For Poles the world over the monastery that stands on Golden Hill is a symbol of survival for a nation that has known more foreign oppression than independence.

Like many others of its kind, the monastery is as much a fortress as a house of God. Its walls rise solid from the slopes. From them one looks out on what was once a lush valley and is now a smoke shrouded landscape pierced by the red, purple and yellow flares of iron foundries.

Above the west wall stands an altar, open to the sky. Below is a 10-acre square flanked on two sides by shabby houses and on a third by trees. Huge crowds, sometimes more than a million persons, gather in this square every year to renew the vows made to the Virgin Mary three centuries ago by Poland's King Kazimierz. He dedicated his nation to her service and declared her Queen of Poland.

Miraculous Powers

Hard by the open altar is a chapel. It holds the "black Madonna," the picture of Virgin and Child to which Catholics attribute miraculous powers. The painting, blackened by age, is shrouded behind a veil. Twice a day the veil is withdrawn while the sick and the crippled pray for intercession.

The Black Madonna's origin is lost in history. Many Catholics believe it was painted by St. Luke.

The great pilgrimages come to Jasna Gora only once or twice a year. At other times the monastery's 35 Pauline monks go quietly about their round of prayer, study and meditation. The white-clad Paulines normally are missionaries, taking their faith into the countryside. But the Jasna Gora monks work only inside the monastery. And there, they show the ready hospitality one finds everywhere in Poland.

Lunchtime in the high-ceilinged refectory looked like a scene from an Elizabethan drama. The food was simple, but by no means sparse.

The prior, small and dark with horn-rimmed glasses, led the way from the refectory through whitewashed corridors to the rich library.

Fifty Chairs

Fifty chairs stood round two long mahogany tables. The prior explained that Poland's prime minister, Cardinal Wysynski, had just ended a conference in the room with priors of all Polish monasteries. One result, it seemed, was the monks had given up smoking.

The great pilgrimages represent significant feats of organization. One of the brothers cited some figures from a pilgrimage last August which attracted more than half a million persons.

In three days, he said, 15,500 masses were celebrated at 75 altars within the monastery. Communion was taken by 180,000 pilgrims. Two thousand priests walked in procession with the holy painting round the monastery ramparts and 1,400 of them were given lunch in the refectory.

The Communist civil authorities do not make any attempt to cater for or profit from the influx of pilgrims which any Western European city would regard as a heaven-sent source of municipal income.

Sleep In Open

Pilgrims bed down in the open as best they can, or sleep 10 and even 20 to a room in private houses, paying five zloty (20 cents) for a chair or 50 zloty for a bed.

People start arriving two or even three days before a big pilgrimage. Around the monastery walls stand booths and stalls like those of a country fair selling candy, bread, gimmer cakes, copies of the holy painting, walking sticks and wooden toys carved by villagers. Crippled beggars sit by each of the four monastery gates.

By night the crowd fills all the space below the walls and spills into the streets that lead to the town. Some already are kneeling, peering up at the altar and above it the light in the monastery spire.

Arbitrators Make Award

EASTON — A Northampton County board of arbitrators has awarded $311.03 in automobile accident damages to Elmer R. Smith, Belvidere, N.J., because of a three-car crash on Route 611, Lower Mount Bethel Township, on June 27, 1953.

The Smith car, driven by his son, Elmer Jr., collided with cars driven by William S. Habakus, Martins Creek, and Frank A. Bechtel, 112 E. Nesquehoning St., Easton.

Youth Accused Of Theft

BANGOR — A 14-year-old local youth has been apprehended by police on charges of stealing a typewriter from the parish house of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church here sometime before Thanksgiving.

State and local police began an investigation after the theft was reported by Rev. William E. Dennis. The 14-year-old first told police he purchased the typewriter for 75 cents from another youth.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR TUES, DEC. 10, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Do what you know to be right. Do not be persuaded against your better judgment—no matter how sympathetic you may feel toward the other person. You should enjoy this day.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Take the time to relax. If criticized, maybe you won't need the criticism, but it may serve to help if you consider it sensible. Now is the time for perseverance, faith.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—You can make time count greatly in your favor if you are consistent and not too demanding. Some folks may be "DO NOT YOU RISE" to you.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Avoid tendencies to find fault, to think of others as being out of your "share," and generally to feel that the world is "against" you. This defeats success. Seek out the good.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—You may become too anxious and try to force matters, or too irritable to notice opportunity now. Watch out for such little "flaws." They can disrupt what would otherwise be a smooth day.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Better think well over what is expected of you now. The day can be productive if you are far-minded and look at things from the other person's view.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You must emphasize your most agreeable and efficient self if you would have matters go well now, as they can. Help maintain the order and harmony you wish for.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Review your past deeds and attend to urgent tasks first—and quickly—but don't overload yourself with too much extra-curricular work—even for good causes.

November 24 to December 31 (Sagittarius)—This day stands for some novelty, originality, new twists, improved methods. But don't go overboard with routine, that must be handled as usual.

December 32 to January 30 (Capricorn)—Collect data, information and knowledge thoughtfully. Then use it well to promote attainment and happiness.

January 31 to February 29 (Aquarius)—Your innate broad-mindedness and the ability to work under stress and irritating conditions can serve to advance your interests now. Steady!

February 30 to March 30 (Pisces)—Industrial, military scientific and research activities especially favor you now. Where you can assist others or actually lead them, don't hesitate.

March 31 to April 30 (Aries)—You have sturdy and honorable qualities; are honest, benevolent and generous; and are agreeable under duress and irritations. Carefully study your best points and develop them fully. You are enterprising, soundly ambitious and intelligent. Your natal planet, Jupiter, favors unusual achievement in many fields, such as law, journalism, writing, music, business management.

April 31 to May 31 (Taurus)—Birthdate: Cesar Franck, Belgian composer; Thos. Gallaudet, pioneer teacher of the deaf in the U.S.A.

Response 'Widespread' For Art Show

RESPONSE to the Christmas Show of the Gallery Art Club has been "widespread" and "very gratifying," according to Mrs. Diana Cohen, GAC president.

Mrs. Cohen said last night that "interest in the show has exceeded all expectations, even in this art-conscious community." The show opens next Monday, Dec. 16 at the YMCA building in Stroudsburg and continues through Jan. 4.

It will be open to the public all three weeks daily except on Sundays. A cordial invitation has been extended to the general public to attend the Annual Open House of the YMCA on Jan. 1 while the show is still on view.

Representative Works

Mrs. Cohen said that widespread response from artists promises a comprehensive showing of representative works of art for the exhibit. It is the first of its kind ever held here.

The 1958 Gallery Art Club season opens on April 5 in the gallery on the second floor of Famous Department Store on Crystal St. in East Stroudsburg. The opening show will be paintings by Monroe County art groups.

Second show of the regular season will be an exhibit of art work done by children in public schools of the county. The nine-show season runs through Aug. 15, Mrs. Cohen announced.

Gallery Art Club membership is open to all on either an individual or group basis. All interested persons or organizations are welcome to participate in this community effort, Mrs. Cohen said.

Deeds Filed For College Buildings

THE STATE Department of Property and Supplies yesterday filed in the office of Floyd Butz, register and recorder, a deed transferring to the General State Authority lots and easements for construction of a library and administration building, utility expansion and science classroom building for East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Other deeds filed yesterday included:

Chestnut Hill

Mabel C. Angelmyer, Chestnut Hill Township, to Mabel C. Angelmyer, Earl F. and Veronica C. Shafer, same address, five lots in Chestnut Hill Township; Vacationland Realty Co., Mountaintop, to Richard E. and Glenn M. Landi, Cresco, lot in Barrett Township.

Fred and Mamie Smale, Polk Township, to Irene M. and Leon F. Keller, Chestnut Hill Township, lot in Polk Township; William F. and Virginia T. Miller, Eldred Township, to Donald E. and Emma Haldaman, Bethlehem, two lots in Eldred Township; Arthur L. and Mary J. Yetter, Smithfield Township, to Walter and Johanna Bracken, Philadelphia, lot in Middle Smithfield Township.

Decline In Output

BUDAPEST, Dec. 9 (AP)—The newspaper of Hungary's Communist-led Trade Union Federation says there has been a sharp decline in the nation's industrial output. The newspaper said there were 7,000 more workers in September 1957 than last year, but they produced four per cent less than a year ago.

Doors Often Hard To Find

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Dec. 9 (AP)—Things went well with Hubert Schmidt's attempted jail break-up to a point.

Burrell Patterson, 56, turnkey in the Jefferson County jail, said he was lured into the bullpen yesterday on a ruse by Schmidt, who managed to slip out, locking the jailer in behind him.

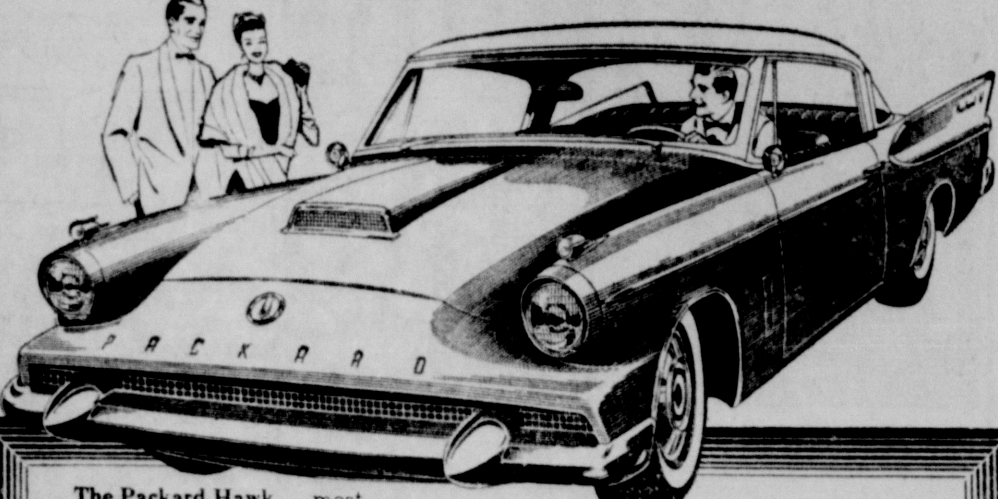

Patterson went to a window and shouted to Robert Dement, a 15-year-old passerby, to fetch the police. Dement did, and officers found Schmidt, 20, who is held on charges of burglary and larceny, sitting dejectedly on a second-floor stair landing.

"I couldn't find the outside door," Schmidt complained.

Services For T. W. Kintner

FUNERAL services for the late Thomas W. Kintner, Stroudsburg, were held at 2 p. m. yesterday in the William R. Thomas Funeral Home.

Rev. P. N. Wohlsen officiated. Interment was made in the Stroudsburg Cemetery. Pallbearers were members of Phoenix Fire Co.: James Somers, Richard Phillips, William Torzillo, Howard Altomose Jr., Floyd Kresge and Fred Miller.
